Response to Amendment

1. The amendment to the specification and the abstract was improper has not been entered. The amendment does not show the changes. Applicant must correctly submit the amendments.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 19-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is not clear as to how the applicant is customizing a message nor how the device indicates to the user at what point he or she stop reading. The claim is indefinite. If this is a recorded message, then the claim should indicate such limitation or limitations. The claim merely recites customizing and an indicator which indicates to the user at what point he or she stop reading. These could be inherent items, wherein customizing can be anything created or supplied by the user.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-18, and 20-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Leung (5.569,868).

Leung discloses a sound generating book (printed matter) comprising: a microelectronic device (50) for processing signals for generating speech and music as discussed in column 3, line 60 through column 4, line 3; memories (60, 62, 64) for storing data; and a micro power supply as seen in figures 3 and 4. As discussed in column 2, lines 18-23, the sounds can include speech and music. The book provides sensors for indicating opening of pages as discussed in column 2, lines 32-37. The book further provides transmitters which correspond signals with pages in order to correlate the pages with the sounds as discussed in column 3, lines 32-40, wherein inherently the user can know what page he/she is on based on the sound generation. The generation and triggering of the speech is discussed in column 4, lines 6-19.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-24 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Applicants arguments do not convinced the examiner that the amended claims differentiate from the prior art. While differences are explained in the arguments, they do not appear in the claims. Claims 19-21, partly attempt to provide the differences, but not contain definite language to overcome the art of record.

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
